AMUSEMENTS

AT MYERS THEATRE.

Tonight brings to a climax the curiosity and impatience with which the public of Janesville have awaited the advent of the first part of the motion picture story "The Grey O' Herbs". The first episode in the story consisting of three parts and entitled "The Flower O' The Flame" will be shown on the screen at Myers Theatre tonight. The first installment of the story in print appeared in The Gazette last Saturday night and the second installment will appear tomorrow night, so that readers of The Gazette and patrons of the Myers Theatre may know in advance what the situations will be when they come to see the second episode to be shown at Myers next Friday.

This motion picture starts right off with some thrills and interest is kept up until the final foot is thrown on the screen. It is said that it is impossible for anyone to even guess one inch in advance of the film what is going to happen or even fathom at all how it is finally going to turn out. Special orchestra accompaniment has been arranged for throughout.

AT THE APOLLO.

Two very good acts were presented at the Apollo yesterday and another will be added today to take the place of an act that Manager Zanias considered far below the standard which he has set for his theatre. It is a difficult matter to control the acts on a circuit and the Apollo for some time has been drawing from the best of all circuits when the salaries come under the limit of a city of this size. This has been left to agents and when a poor act comes it is necessary to refuse it in order to give the patrons the usual standard.

OWL ORGANIZATION OFFERS REWARD FOR CONVICTION

The supreme trustees of the Order of Owls have authorized the payment of a fifty dollar reward for the conviction of H. Alberts upon the charge of obtaining money under false pretences collecting money in Edgerton and other Wisconsin cities without authority from the organization.

LAWRENCE COLLEGE SCHEDULE IS OUT

Play Wisconsin University at Madison on October 3.—Walter Tippett, Captain of Squad.

An announcement of the Lawrence college football schedule for the coming season has been announced with the Wisconsin varsity eleven, their opponents at Madison, October 3rd. The last of the Tippet brothers, will be seen in action this fall for the last time on the gridiron. This year Walter, the youngest of the trio, is a senior, and is to captain the eleven from the Wisconsin institution. "Red" Earl Tippet, captain of the 1913 eleven, graduated last June, while the older star, "Rufus" Ralph, finished in 1912, during which year he led the old team. Three remarkable players, perhaps never before seen coming from one family, have graced the football field, and won many a game for Lawrence, as well as the Janesville high school eleven, to which Earl and Ralph were backfield men back in 1907 and 1908. Their ability would have done justice to any eastern eleven.

Russell Wilkinson of this city, is to be back at his old tackle position this fall. His experience gained last season, especially in the Wisconsin game, when he topped the line, will aid him materially during his third season. He should make all-state material at Lawrence this fall.

The schedule as it stands today is as follows:

Sept. 26—Oshkosh high at Appleton.

Oct. 3—Wisconsin at Madison.

Oct. 10—Carroll at Appleton.

Oct. 17—Open.

Oct. 24—Lake Forest at Appleton.

Nov. 7—Beloit at Beloit.

Nov. 14—Oshkosh normal at Appleton.

Nov. 21—Ripon at Ripon.

The Beloit-Lawrence game at Beloit Nov. 7th will be without a doubt, a terrific struggle, rivaling a European war. Beloit's decisive defeat by Lawrence last fall at Appleton, 14-0, has made matters worse between the schools, and with the enemy on their own territory, Beloit hopes, with the aid of Edler, Garritt and a few others, to reverse the 1913 score.

STAG PARTY GIVEN FOR EDWARD LEARY

Mr. and Mrs. Harry George Entertain at Cottage Last Evening in Honor of Future Benedict.

Thirty-two guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry George were delightfully entertained at a stag party in honor of Edward Leary at the George cottage, five miles up the river, last evening. The party left shortly after six o'clock, the steamer Augusta being engaged to convey the party.

The spacious lawn at the George cottage was brilliantly illuminated and the party were welcomed by their hosts. A sumptuous dinner was served, which taxed the party for eating capacity. At the conclusion of the dinner members called upon Edward Leary to explain his intention to become a Benedict. Mr. Leary, after giving a humorous toast sang several selections and responded to an encore to "Good-Bye Boys". Toasts were made for and by the guests of honor, who weathered the storm of humorous gibes of those in single blessedness. Cards were played and a trip down the river to the first episode in the story consisting of three parts and entitled "The Flower O' The Flame" was shown on the screen at Myers Theatre tonight. The first installment of the story in print appeared in The Gazette last Saturday night and the second installment will appear tomorrow night, so that readers of The Gazette and patrons of the Myers Theatre may know in advance what the situations will be when they come to see the second episode to be shown at Myers next Friday.

ELKS ENJOY OUTING THURSDAY AFTERNOON

First Annual Picnic Held at Crystal Springs Park Proved Most Successful.

Thursday afternoon marked the first annual picnic of the Janesville lodge 254 B. P. O. E. at Crystal Springs Park. The committee in charge had perfect arrangements for the transportation of the members to and from the grounds and the small launches piled up and down the river at intervals of an hour. During the afternoon there was ball game and other athletic sports and tables for bridge attracted many. At five o'clock a roast beef supper, with green corn roast, hot rolls, coffee and trimmings, was served on the pavilion, and was duly appreciated. Sixty

A Day of Questions.

The Story.

Handel, when composing his oratorio, "The Messiah," was found bathed in tears. What touched him was the prophet's words, "He was despised." The despising of Jesus is evident in the temple as at the cross. And physical pains are not so severe to a spiritual soul as wounds inflicted upon that higher nature. Lowell says: Our modern martyrdoms are none the less martyrdoms ever he came to the cross. We come now to the last onset of his deepening crises. The Pharisees, Jesus' implacable foes, are deepening their hatred. The time when consummate cunning kept themselves in the background. They allowed some of their underlings to consort with the hated Herodians in the scheme to trap him by performing Rabbi. The language of the address was characteristically Herodian. It was a gracious, empty platitude, which these traitorous sycophants had learned in the court of the Idumeans. The honeyed phrase with which they baited their trap was the grossest insult of all the many that were ever heaped upon Jesus. Could they imagine he would be so easily duped? The horns of the dilemma, on one or the other of which they expected Jesus to be impaled, were these: If, for example, he would say it was obligatory to pay tribute to the Romans, he would inflame the Jewish population to the highest degree. "What! pay tribute to a heathen tyrant to enable him to live in luxury in his golden palace on the other hand, that such a tax ought not to be paid, he would lay himself open to the charge of sedition against the most alert and virile government the world has ever known. But the night would be in a Roman prison and his career, so threatening to Phariseism, would be at an end forever. It was a well-laid scheme. Many a great reformer has been undone by one false step.

But the very propounding of such a conundrum shows that the questioners had no idea with whom they were dealing. Jesus knocked the cunning dialectical trap up and smothered it. He asked those who had set it with the iron rod of his mouth when he called them "Hypocrites!" He answered fools asked, "ing to their folly when he said, 'Render unto Caesar that which is Caesar's.' The question still open whether taxes were Caesar's right. The individual must decide. The very holding up of the penny and the making the questioners themselves reveal the inscription increased the fog in which Jesus deliberately and under the circumstances justified wrapped the whole matter. Like a skilled helmsman he steered between Scylla and Charybdis. He had no offense to the populace. He had not affirmed that they must pay the odious tax. On the other hand he had given no occasion for his enemies to lodge complaint of the non-payment of the tax. He had said that the Jews must not pay the tax. The Herodian question, asked so deftly, proved a boomerang, and came hurtling back to the camp of the conspirators. They were dumfounded. They could not get away quickly enough. They were in abject fear lest Jesus would follow up his advantage and put them in still worse form with the mercenary populace.

THE TEACHERS' LANTERN.

The climatic character of this contentment is apparent from the large space given to it in the Gospels. One-sixth of all Matthew is taken up by the account of this single day of questioning, while twenty-five chapters in the four Gospels are devoted to the last week of Jesus' life. "A Jealous fear made strange, bed-fellows. The Pharisee, that paragon of orthodoxy, and the Sadducee, who was heretodoxy's very self, like Pilate and Herod, were friends in a day and both concerted with the confessedly unpatriotic Herodians. This triple alliance could hardly fail to accomplish its end. It was only a question of means to use and time to bring the about. The Jewish covering, united, invincible ecclesiasticism sets itself for the overthrow of a teacher whose spirit and doctrine is justly recognized as entirely inimical. It is to do it, if it would not destroy itself. It was the instinctive dictate of self-preservation. The "tribute" in dispute, literally called "census" was a poll tax levied on the people exclusively for the purpose of the Roman emperor. It was the Emperor's pence, which for the Pope personally. In this instance it was a sign of submission and its payment equivalent to an expression of loyalty to the sovereign. No part of it was ever used for local purposes or improvements. That is what made it superlatively odious. It was a red flag to passion. It was a bone of contention. No nicer question of casuistry could by any means have been propounded. But to steal the liberty of a truth-teller, to compass the moral rule of another, was the foulest crime in the long black catalogue of the misdeeds of that pharisaical ecclesiasticism which seems to have run parallel with the human race. It is a measure of the moral power of Jesus, in the day in which he lived, that fierce and hostile factions must needs drop their differences for the time, and use their united strength to oppress his rule. Pharisees, "strictest" sect of all, conservators of orthodoxy; Sadducees, the free thinkers of the day; and Herodians, panders to royal vice and trucklers to imperial power, all had, per force, to pool issues. For ten centuries the Christians of the East have stood in their relation to the Turkish Empire, in exactly the position occupied by the Jews in the relation to Rome. They have paid a poll tax as aliens. Under the liberal "New Turk" constitution disabilities and dignities have been removed and their recognition as fellow-citizens is now on the way to being complete.

The Young People's Devotional Service, August 30, 1914. Isaiah 65: 17-25.

Why and How to Abolish War.

"For behold, I create a new heavens and a new earth; and the former shall not be remembered nor come into mind. But be ye glad and rejoice forever in that which I create." In St. Paul's epistle the soldier was the wait of power. As such, but without justifying the profession, the apostle uses the soldier as the emblem of efficiency. He urges his converts to be good soldiers. In our day the soldier is not the unit of power. He is, on the contrary, a passing incident in the current civilization. There are already sure tokens of the approach of the prophet's day, when the art of war, such as such as be learned any more, when there will be no more garments rolled in blood, and when the implements of death will be converted into those of peace and life.

TANNED CAMPERS HAD A JOYOUS TWO WEEKS

Six Local Y. M. C. A. Young Men at Phantom Lake Won Honors— Plan for Another Year.

The six campers representing the Janesville branch of the state Y. M. C. A. who have been spending the past two weeks at Phantom Lake, near Waukesha, at the last session of the summer school, have returned to their homes, after enduring beautiful sunbathing and enduring rich brown color. Harry Fuchs, George Kalvelage, Fred Korst, Clem Jackman, Andrew Schaller and Dean Kimball, under the supervision of Elmer S. Gschow, made up the Janesville delegation.

There were 130 youths at the last session of the camp. Madison sent the largest delegation, 25 being their number. Other cities and towns represented were: Richland Center, Edgerton, Beloit, Beaver Dam, Whitewater, Waukesha, Milwaukee, Racine, Kenosha, and other smaller towns sending out to three boys each.

The Janesville group were given credit for having been the best social mixers at camp. This speaks well for the Janesville association. They were also prize winners. Harry Fuchs was made a member of the United States Volunteer Life Saving Corps. The banner for the best well kept tent went to the local boys. An overnight hike to Pottery Lake, a distance of some four miles from Phantom, was enjoyed.

The above paragraphs sum up the camp activities. The Janesville boys were especially concerned. They are all boasting of a wonderful time, and hope by another year to return, with a larger delegation from this city to take part in the pleasures of so fine a resort.

MRS. L. J. CRONIN GETS HIGH OFFICE

Janesville Woman Elected President of State L. A. A. O. H. at Madison Convention.

At the annual convention of the L. A. A. O. H. held in Madison the first of the week Mrs. L. J. Cronin of 426 Western avenue, who for the past two years has served this organization as vice president, was elected state president by unanimous acclamation. Mrs. Cronin's place as vice-president, with Mary E. Kennedy of Milwaukee as state secretary and Nellie E. Fahney of Oshkosh state treasurer.

The convention just closed was the most successful, in every sense of the word, ever held in Wisconsin, and shows the order to be in a prosperous state financially and growing membership. James Dawson of this city was elected on the board of the new juvenile department, that bids fair to be one of the strongest child organizations in the state.

He appeals to his record as a public official to sustain his claim of appropriate training to fit him for senator. His six years experience as city attorney, four years experience as city clerk, three terms on the judicial committee, three terms chairman of the committee on cities, suggests the number of important public questions studied, and the extent of experience and knowledge gained. He refers to the several measures providing for farmers' institutes, admission to the law, anti-sweat shop law, tenement house law, budget law for cities of the first class, county and city parks, a pioneer work for the law creating a state bank examiner as evidence of constructive ability as a legislator.

That in the same session he championed the "Soil Survey Bill," which provides for an analysis of the soil to determine what ingredients are lacking to produce certain crops.

FINAL CHARGES.

If it is a possible thing Senator LaFollette is going to pay his first while friend and trusty follower, Francis E. McGovern, for his desertion of the LaFollette cause at the republican national convention in Chicago two years ago. If half the charges that Senator LaFollette makes against McGovern are true his support of his candidacy for governor two years ago is hard to explain to the voters of the state in view of present developments. However this is La-Follette's method. He had an object in view two years ago, that of retaining the republican party in power in the state for his own personal ends, and consequently he swallowed his rancor and helped elude the people into electing McGovern. Now McGovern wants to be United States senator and LaFollette wants his own personal friend and the only original "Rubber Stamp" Thomas Morris, elected, and is ready to make any sacrifice to accomplish the end.

The tales of the falseness of the various candidates that are floating about like bits of foam on a stream.
The pot is calling the kettle black and the kettle retaliates. Lies are passed with as much equanimity as though it was only an incident in the great game and the eyes of the people are being opened to the fact that La-Follette will stop at nothing to defeat McGovern and elect Morris, and Mc-Govern will stop at nothing to get a seat in the senate of the United States where he would be far from the "rubber stamp." LaFollette wants in Washington and a veritable thorn in the side of the "Little Boss" of republican politics in Wisconsin.

Meantime the voters are doing some thinking for themselves. They are now realizing that all that is good and holy does not emanate from the LaFollette camp. That the split between the progressive leaders has brought to light many facts hitherto hidden to the public's attention and shows the rottenness of the whole machine that has so long dominated republican party politics, aided by "fair-minded democrats," and they are planning reprisals. Bancroft rings true in this crisis. So does Esterbrook of Milwaukee. Both are republicans who can be depended upon and it is safe to say they will receive a good sized vote on Tuesday next.

In the gubernatorial race the fight between Hutton and Dahl, the two bonafide LaFollette men in the race, is so intense that it is doubtful if the word passed around that supporters of the other should vote second choice for the other, will really be effective.
Roose is still in the race as is Merlin Hull. While both are tralling they are factors to be considered and will draw materially from the candidacy of both Hutton and Dahl. If the truth be known, Dahl is the last man in the field, is really the choice of LaFollette. The senator owes too much, personally, to desert Dahl now. In fact, he does not dare do so and consequently he has been placed in the position of having to do some quick thinking and the thinking has been too much for his nervous system and he has gone to a sanitarium to recuperate.

Dahl for years was one of the La-Follette advisory committee on finance. This fact may not be known generally, but he was. He helped pull the senator, then governor, out of a serious financial difficulty, was one of the men who capitalized his power, as it were, when his resources had been seriously drained by strenuous and costly campaigns, and the senator would be most ungrateful if he did not remember him at this time.
Should he forget? Well, if he did, La-Follette comes up for re-election shortly and then Dahl might have something to say that would interest the public.

Meanwhile Philipp goes about the state, impresses the voters with the sincerity of his platform and the necessity for the election of men to state office that stand for a safe and sane administration of state affairs.
For lower taxes and the greater efficiency in state affairs, a representative government in place of a government by costly commissions, and they are listening to him. Philipp began the crusade early in the campaign and was laughed at and derided by his opponents, but now one by one they are falling into line and adopting his war slogan, showing that his doctrine is sound and right. Meanwhile all efforts possible are being made to defeat him by invoking the second choice, so if possible the will of the people can be defeated by political chicanery.

Next Tuesday will tell the tale.
Will the voters decide to permit the present gang that have run state affairs to suit themselves so long continue to administer the government or will they vote for men who are good, strong, honest and capable men, who stand for lower taxes and an administration of affairs in the interest of the voters—men like Philipp and Bancroft. Men like Whitely, Bancroft or Vinegar, to represent Rock county in the assembly, to aid in the great work of reforming the reformers?

Evansville, Beloit and Madison have had race meets since the Janesville fair, but at none of them have such fields of horses faced the starter as did here. In fact, the boast that was the largest field of track in Wisconsin has been fair to stand for some time to come and speaks well for the local fair management and the conditions at the Janesville track.

THOUGHT AND WAR.
One gleam of hope piercing the thick cloud of battle that obscures the face of Europe is the possibility that on the scene of countless wars war is now dying a horrible death. If war is in its death throes, the cost in human suffering, fearful though it is to contemplate, cannot be deemed in-vain. And meantime the war is performing one great service. It is forcing the world to do what it has seldom done before—think. One of the wits of late Victorian England said:
"Thought is in its essence destructive.
Nothing can endure being thought about." That to which the world is now applying the destructive test of thought is precisely war.
There are many exaggerations as to the number of men that are available for service in the armies of the various contending nations. In this connection it should be pointed out that the total number of soldiers in the really effective in France or Germany is exaggerated. Any such estimate as 6,000,000 for the Germans would be absurd. That would represent one out of ten of the total inhabitants of the country, and would assume that all the grown men were capable of bearing arms.
Even in efficient and voluntary armies, up to their full strength, a company commander with one hundred and four men, on paper, lucky if he can show eighty effective on parade.
But under conscription the quality is far inferior to this; with the consequence that the actual fighting men are probably 40 per cent below even the staff paper estimates.
It is to be noted that European authorities are speaking of a long war.
These are military men, like Lord Kitchener. They are not financiers or economists. What is likely to stop this war, in the not far distant future, is not bayonets, but bankruptcy; hunger, and not horse artillery.

Candidate Esterbrook, one of the republican aspirants for the United States senate, is a man who has had experience that well fits him for the office. He has served the state as attorney general and as member of the legislature with honor and credit. He is a veteran of the civil war, one of the few of those brave men of the Sixties who remained in public life and is well equipped mentally and physically to represent the state at Washington.
He would be far from the "rubber stamp" type of a senator that LaFollette desires.

Evidently the railroad commissioners at Madison are finding it hard work to decide what is a fair and equitable price for the Janesville Water company's plant. That is, the price they suggest does not satisfy the owners and consequently the affair is being dragged out, much to the dissatisfaction of the interested parties.

Rock county is still building good roads and the roads will shortly be a valuable asset to the entire community. The streets of the city have not been in as good condition in many years as at present, showing that good, conservative work pays in the long run.

This is not the winter of discontent, but the August of cool weather and many sigh with relief after the hot nights of July. However, warm weather is coming and about the time school opens it will be fever heat again. It always is.

CONFER ON DETAILS IN WATERWORKS CASE

Railroad Commission Engineer and City Engineer Kerch Checking Up Claims of Company.
City Engineer C. V. Kerch and W.
E. Miller, engineer representing the state railroad commission, were in conference this morning checking up the water main system of the Janesville water plant and noting the various claims made by the waterworks company regarding the equipment of the plant. A complete inventory had been presented by the company officials, which includes even minute details of the company's equipment, maintenance and cost of construction, and everything that could be included in setting the valuation price.
The work of the railroad commission engineers and city officials for the next week will be to verify as much as possible the claims of the company.
Considerable time will be necessary to arrive at figures for the commission to pass judgment upon, for conflicting claims are made by the city and company.
At the hearing held yesterday afternoon the water company was represented by M. G. Jeffris, C. W. Jackson and William Hyser. For the city Mayor James A. Fathens, Councilman Roy Cummings and P. J. Goodman, City Attorney W. H. Dougherty and City Engineer C. V. Kerch were present. Details concerning the excavating of streets called for a lengthy discussion which consumed the greater part of the time.
No further action has been taken in the suit brought about by the bondholders of the water company against the company, city and state railroad commission to stop the laying over of the plant. Both the city and railway commission have filed their answers and are awaiting the next move on the part of the bondholders' attorneys.

PIANO FACTORY WAS NOT CLOSED BY WAR

Erroneous Statement Published on Supposedly Good Authority is Contradicted.

According to a dispatch received from the Bush, president of the Bush and Gerts piano factory of Chicago, their factory is not closed down as stated in the Gazette some evenings ago. In fact, it has not been closed more than five weeks in the past ten years. It is running full force at present, five days per week. The information of the closing of the factory was brought to the Gazette office by a man purporting to be J. A. Gerts and was supposed to be accurate. It is to be regretted that the story was published in its incorrect form.

Her Want Was Filled You Can Fill Yours In The Same Way

"I want a new ice-box, ours is so large; yet I hesitate in getting one as there is no reason, except that it is too large for our present location for selling the one we now have. I wish I might take a few tucks in it—think I could?" asked a prudent woman of her neighbor, as they talked the other morn.

"I doubt your ability to take a tuck in your ice-box, but if you are determined to have a new one why not advertise your old box and use the money derived from its sale towards a new one?"

"Think I could?"

"I am rather sure you could. I have used the want ad page so many times, with such satisfactory results, that I feel safe in suggesting this plan to you."

That's all! Unless you would be interested in knowing that the first speaker did sell her Armour-size ice-box; that she did purchase one that was the required size. She did not lose money either. It does pay to air grievances, of some cases, does it not? Of one thing you are certain! It pays to advertise! Oh! it does. Try it!
